BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Florence Howes Gordon
October 27, 1914-March 20, 2003

Florence Howes Gordon was the descendent of a prominent Cape Cod and Woods Hole family, the Howes family. She was born in Woods Hole, Massachusetts, where her father Horace Milton (H.M.) Howes was involved in the grocery business. Mrs. Gordon was a nurse. Woods Hole, Cape Cod and Colonial history were major interests and her meticulously assembled collection of ephemera, clippings and books reflects this interest.

SCOPE NOTE

The Florence Howes Gordon Collection is a wonderful compilation of varied parts. The collection includes a number of quilts, a child's chair made for Mrs. Gordon as a child by a prominent local carpenter, and souvenir china and cup plates. Photographs from 1870s-1950s show many aspects of Woods Hole history which are not recorded elsewhere, including many large format mounted prints of the 1870s- early 1900s. There are a number of original prints of the prominent Boston photographer Baldwin Coolidge taken during the 1890s in Woods Hole.

Mrs. Gordon's carefully assembled scrapbooks are each devoted to particular aspects of Woods Hole history and include pamphlets, programs, calling cards, greeting cards, postcards and clippings. In addition to the scrapbooks, there is a collection of loose pamphlets and clippings, including pamphlets written by Dorothy Elsmith, a local writer and historian. Mrs. Gordon's book collection consists of 86 volumes devoted to fiction and non-fiction about Woods Hole, Falmouth, Cape Cod and Colonial history.

Original albumen print 9 9/16 x 7 7/16 inches, on original mounting 12 x 10 inches, stamped in purple ink on reverse "BALDWIN COOLIDGE PHOTOGRAPHER BOSTON". 03-13-3.3 Little Harbor from the east side (probably Foster estate) looking at U.S. Lighthouse Service Station on west side, Butler house, Davis house, Childs house and Dexter House in background, Coolidge Number 7700, 1895 (labeled in lower left corner). Original albumen print 9 7/16 x 7 3/8 inches, on original mounting 12 x 10 inches, stamped on reverse in purple ink "BALDWIN COOLIDGE PHOTOGRAPHER BOSTON". Print in fair condition, spotted and scratched. Plate was evidently broken when print was made; there is a piece missing of the upper right corner. Mounting stained, remnants of glue on reverse.

03-13-3.4 Little Harbor and Woods Hole Passage from Foster Estate, Butler house on right. Original albumen print, unnumbered. "1895" is written on mounting, probably correct (this is one of the "panorama" photos). 9 1/2 x 7 1/2 inches, on original mounting 12 x 10 inches, stamped in blue-black ink on reverse "BALDWIN COOLIDGE PHOTOGRAPHER BOSTON". Print in fair condition, scratched, abraded, torn at edge. Mounting is missing upper right corner and is bent and cracked, also stained, remnants of glue on reverse.

03-13-3.5 Little Harbor, west side, with U.S. Lighthouse Service Station, behind it the Greek Revival Sarah Fish house, Dexter House (a Greek Revival, with dark trim), the bracketed Webster House and on the right the Davis house, the Hatch house, a house built in 1858 on the site of the Naushon House and Eliel Fish's store. Sloop "Iris" with cutter bow and long bowsprit in center of harbor, said in F.L. Gifford's painting done from this photo to be owned by a "Mr. Coolidge". The Butler house has not yet been built (1880). Original albumen print, unnumbered. "1870 or before" is written on the right lower corner of the mounting. 9 1/8 x 6 7/16 inches, on original mounting 12 x 10 inches, stamped in black ink on reverse "BALDWIN COOLIDGE PHOTOGRAPHER, 410A BOYLSTON STREET, BOSTON". Print in poor to fair condition, stained spotted and abraded. Mounting is stained, cracked and bent. Date probably before 1875.

This photo presents a great mystery. Baldwin Coolidge did not begin his official photography career until 1878. He rented a studio at that time at 147 Tremont, Boston. He did not live at 410A Boylston Street until 1908. There was a mansard-roofed Coolidge house on Parker's-Butler's-Juniper Point which appears in many early photos – the land was sold to Joseph Sweet Coolidge and John Templeton Coolidge in 1838 and was referred to as a farm. It was bought by Daniel Butler in 1875 and when it burned in 1880, he built the present (Crane) house. Perhaps the Mr. Coolidge of the earlier house (and sloop) was a relative of Baldwin's. In any case, this print would be the earliest photo we know of his. He must have printed it from a negative plate later when he was at the Boylston Street address. It would have to have been taken before 1875 when Webster House burned.

03-13-3.6 Eel Pond, August 21, 1890. Black and white copy photo of the cracked glass plate version of 5149, 9 ½ x 7 ½ inches on 10 x 8 inch paper. Good condition, yellowed, stained on reverse.
